What we do and how we do it

Our purpose is to be a qualified technical partner for the development, prototyping, calibration, testing and construction of electrical and electronic systems for racing cars, prototypes development and automotive innovation projects.

Thanks to the experience gained on competition fields around the world, we offer a complete service empowered in effectiveness and efficiency by typical motorsport values:

passion for challenges,

speed of execution,

analytical approach,

project management and

customer oriented attitude.

Additionally our "from race to road" technology transfer expertise empowers us to perform focused top level tuning of road cars.
